Sync iphone with Outlook notes

Looking for the simplest and most logical way of synchronizing the 3G iPhone with Outlook Notes. Whilst Calendar, Email and Contacts are supported - Apple did not make any provision for doing anything w/notes. Yet - there is a NOTES icon on my iPhone.

Any ideas there?

Best Regards, Art

Try www.toodledo.com, and its companion Appigo ToDo application. It'll sync your iPhone to the toodledo web site. Then load Chromatic Dragons's Outlook Sync which will sync Outlook to the toodledo web site.

I use it and it works perfectly well for me.

Posted a topic about this, if you're connected to an exchange server and can get Push Email working, try IMNotes, real time two way access to your Notes from Outlook to iPhone.

I don't understand these replies - no software is needed other than iTunes and hte standard iPhone software! As long as your iPhone 3GS is on 3.1 or later, just do this:

1. Go to your iPhone in iTunes.
2. Open the "Info" tab.
3. Scroll down to Notes and check the box to Sync; don't forget to select Outlook.
4. SYNChronize yuor iPhone with Outlook.
5. Done.

Hope this helps,
Fernando

Look at the dates of the original posts... they long pre-date Apple's support of Notes syncing through iTunes.

I almost fell for it too. I was checking the forum with the iPhone App and saw the title and came here to help. Now I see the date it was asked.

Yep...like copy&paste, backgrounding, etc... if you wait a couple years Apple will eventually catchup with the rest of the industry... :-)

I agree to a point. Apple is just acting as the typical genius/nerd who can bring lots of awesome features but leaves out the common sense ones. Since it came out the iPhone has always pushed the other companies to step it up and now look at all the great phones out there. I'm going to stick to my 3GS because I think it's great with JB and the apps I can now use. I'll wait until in a year or two they put the iPhone on Sprint or Verizon or any other carrier forcing AT&T to drop it's monthly prices to compete with others. Imagine how great the iPhone will be 2 years from now!
